Cultural Event at Baba Mastnath University, Rohtak, Haryana

On 25th February 2022, the Department of Pharmaceutical Science, under the Faculty of Pharmacy, Baba Mastnath University, organized a one-day Cultural Fest. The event brought together students and faculty to celebrate cultural diversity, artistic talent, and creative expression. Convened by Prof. (Dr.) Pawan Jalwal with co-convener Ms. Radha Rani, the event was graced by the esteemed presence of Prof. (Dr.) Balvinder Singh. A total of 22 participants enthusiastically participated in the program, showcasing their artistic skills and fostering camaraderie within the department.

The Cultural Fest was a platform for students to display their talents in music, dance, drama, and other creative arts. The event commenced with an inaugural address by Prof. (Dr.) Balvinder Singh, who emphasized the importance of cultural activities in fostering holistic education and personal development. The fest featured vibrant performances that highlighted cultural diversity and unity, while interactive activities encouraged active engagement from the participants and audience alike.

Students and faculty worked together to make the event a grand success, showcasing a spirit of teamwork and mutual respect. The event not only provided an opportunity for participants to exhibit their creative abilities but also strengthened the bond within the department.

Cultural events play a vital role in preserving and celebrating the diversity of traditions and fostering social harmony. This event exemplified the power of cultural expression in promoting inclusivity and strengthening interpersonal relationships. By emphasizing cultural exchange and unity, the event aligned with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), particularly SDG 4 (Quality Education) and SDG 10 (Reduced Inequalities).

Activities that promote cultural awareness and participation contribute to creating an inclusive society that values creativity, diversity, and equality.

The fest witnessed the active involvement of 22 participants, who showcased a variety of performances that highlighted their artistic and cultural roots. The program fostered an environment of encouragement and recognition, inspiring participants to embrace and celebrate their unique identities. Attendees expressed their gratitude for the opportunity to engage in such a meaningful cultural initiative, which strengthened their sense of community and pride.

The Cultural Fest organized by the Department of Pharmaceutical Science at Baba Mastnath University was a celebration of creativity and diversity that resonated with participants and attendees alike. By nurturing artistic talents and encouraging cultural exchange, the event reinforced the importance of holistic education and inclusivity, furthering the university's commitment to empowering individuals and promoting sustainable development goals.
